

PANUI - NEWSLETTER - Week 6 Term 3, 2023

Mai e te Tumuaki - From the Principal

Kia ora whānau

With only five weeks to go until the end of Term 3, it is a hive of activity both in and out of school. For many students, they are finishing up their winter sports and preparing for summer sports to kick into gear. Congratulations to our tamariki who have either played or given sports or outside-of-school activities a go this winter - ka pai!

Even though winter has seen some of the worst bugs be shared around, that hasn't impacted the learning happening across the kura. There is a real buzz in the air with a new format for assemblies and a focus on tamariki expressing themselves through the Arts. I'm excited to get into classes over the next few weeks to hear the stories of what they have been learning and see how they express themselves.

There is a huge amount of work that goes on behind the scenes to ensure our kura is prepared for not only the term or year ahead, but also planning and preparation for the next 3-5 years. That is why I and the BOT truly appreciate whanau taking the time to give feedback through surveys. There are many exciting and future-focused things being developed for our kura which we aim to share and even 'launch' with our community in Term 4 - so watch this space.

In a large facility like Plimmerton, our roadmap forward ensures we have clear outcomes for our learners, consistent systems and processes and the ability to adapt to changes that improve the quality of the services we provide. I recently wrote our staff an email that discussed how exciting change is, what follows is an extract of what I shared.

Today I wanted to discuss two fundamental aspects of our human experience: change and growth. These two elements are the very essence of our existence, woven into the fabric of our lives, shaping us into the individuals we are meant to become.

Change, often met with resistance and apprehension, is an inevitable part of life. It comes in various forms - changes in our surroundings, relationships, careers, and even within ourselves. It's natural to feel uneasy when faced with the unknown, as our minds are wired to seek stability and familiarity. However, it's crucial to understand that change is not an adversary to be conquered; it is a catalyst for growth and an opportunity to evolve.

Imagine a seedling breaking through the soil to reach for the sun. Just as the seedling must adapt to the changing environment, so must we. The discomfort that change brings is a sign that we are leaving behind the old and making way for the new. It is in these moments of discomfort that we learn the most about ourselves - our strengths, our resilience, and our capacity for adaptation. When we lean into change rather than resist it, we harness its potential to shape our lives in ways we never thought possible.

But change alone is not enough; it must be coupled with growth. Growth is the deliberate process of becoming a better version of ourselves. Just as a tree adds rings as it grows, each year representing a season of learning and development, so do we accumulate experiences that shape our character and expand our horizons.

Growth demands that we continuously challenge ourselves. It means setting audacious goals, even when doubt and fear whisper in our ears. Think about the first time you rode a bicycle - the wobbly uncertainty that transformed into a sense of exhilaration and freedom. Growth often feels like that. It's about confronting the unfamiliar until it becomes second nature. It's about choosing progress over perfection and embracing failure as a stepping stone towards success.

Consider the caterpillar that undergoes a metamorphosis to become a butterfly. It must shed its old form and cocoon itself before it can emerge anew. This beautiful transformation reminds us that growth requires shedding our old beliefs and limitations, freeing ourselves from the constraints that hold us back. Just as the butterfly emerges with vibrant wings, we too can emerge with a renewed sense of purpose, armed with the wisdom gained from our experiences.

The reason I share that story is in appreciation of the work that goes on behind the scenes and the admiration I have for our kaiako, staff and BOT. In unity we develop our skills in order to become better in what we do, to enable greater success for all of our learners and to develop outcomes and memories that last a lifetime.

Until next time,

Nga mihi

Parking at School

This is a reminder that:

- Students are not to be driven up or down the drive, they are to be dropped off and picked up from the bottom of the school driveway.
- The only reason to drive up the school driveway during school time is if you have been asked by the office to do so when collecting a sick or injured child.
- Visitor parks are for school visitors, not parents.
- Parking on any yellow lines is prohibited

Library Corner

Earlier in the month, a new book “Finding My Calm” by Rebekah Lipp was introduced to our library collection. This book contains lots of techniques and advice for young people to cope with stress. It teaches the 5-4-3-2-1 technique which involves using your senses to help regain your calm. Room 3 visited the library on Tuesday and one of the students became upset. Classmate Lilly knew just what to do. She had our copy of the book in her possession and said to her classmate “I know how you can find your calm... what are five things that you can see?” She then helped her classmate to identify 5 things he could see, 4 things he could feel, 3 things he could hear, 2 things he could smell and 1 thing he could taste. Awesome Lilly.

This year we had 32 students sign up for the Library’s Chess Club knock-out competition. Congratulations to Bentley (17) who came first in a competitive final with Eli (18) coming second, Dechlan (17) third, and Max (18) fourth. Many thanks to the Fairley family for donating a trophy for our annual competition. All previous winners - Adam (2021), Eli (2022) and Bentley (2023) will have their names engraved on the trophy.

Bentley (1st) and Eli (2nd)

Dechlan (3rd) and Max (4th)

For our budding writers, I can highly recommend the following workshop(s) which are being run during the next school holidays. Hosted by Raroa Intermediate School, there are one or three day workshop options available depending on your skill level and age. The amazing Maria Gill (I just checked our library catalogue and we have 17 of her books in our library) is presenting this event.

See https://www.writelikeanauthor.com/Register.asp?wc_id=384 for further details.

Today is National Poetry Day - so treat yourself and your children and read a poem. Please remember to check out our library catalogue - <https://nz.accessit.online/PLM03>.

Happy reading,
Sarah
